C	Health Beliefs
C.1	According to you, what does this respondent look like? See the picture below and write a number in the box.	[ ]

C.2	For the next few questions, I will ask you to think about two kinds of villages, and would like to ask you, in which kind of village will children be healthier, or w they would be similar in both villages.
C.2.1	Imagine that there are two villages: In one, people usually eat wheat rotis, while in the other one, people usually eat rice. In which village would children be healthier, or would they be similar in both villages?	Rice.....1 Rotis.....2 Similar.....3
C.2.2	Imagine that there are two villages: In one, people use cow dung to cook food, and in the other, people use kerosene oil. In which village would children be healthier, or would they be similar in both villages?	Cow-dung.....1 Kerosene.....2 Similar.....3
C.2.3	Imagine that there are two villages: In one village, everyone uses a latrine to defecate, while in the other, everyone goes out in the open. In which village would children be healthier, or would they be similar in both villages?	Latrine.....1 Open.....2 Similar.....3

C.3	Think about a ladder. The top-most step shows of the ladder shows the best possible life for you, and the bottom-most step shows the worst possible life for you. According to you, on what step is your life at the moment? Please point it out to me. (Interviewer: On the step marked by the respondent, make a small tick. The diagram consists of two vertical lines representing the side rails of a ladder, connected by 12 horizontal lines representing the rungs. To the right of the rungs, there is a vertical column of 12 empty square boxes, each aligned with one of the rungs, intended for the respondent to mark their current step and provide a numerical value.

C.4	Now I want you to think about your health. How do you find your health currently? If the top-most rung of this ladder represents the best possible health for you, and the bottom-most rung represents the worst-possible health, then where would you place your health right now? Please point it out to me. (Interviewer: On the step marked by the respondent, make a small tick. Count the steps from the bottom, and write it in the box next to the question.
